

Romantic Road Trip for The Culture Lover

DESTINATION

Road trip to Cambridge.

Look no further than the historic and multicultural city of Cambridge for a date fit for a culture vulture. In Cambridge you can immerse yourself in the history of the city – explore beautiful medieval architecture and embark on romantic activities such as punting.

Cambridge also offers plenty of museums and galleries to explore so it's a perfect choice for culture enthusiasts!

Being central, the city also makes an easy road trip from places across England.

IN CAR ENTERTAINMENT

Podcasts to listen to – try Grounded by Louis Theroux or What Were You Thinking by Henry Holland.

Playlists – Listen to Spotify's 'Release Radar' playlist for something new, or the playlist 'Legendary' for some of the all-time greats.

Easy Car-Versations – Ask your date to tell you about their favourite play, and the other cultural activities they enjoy the most.

DRINKS AND SNACKS TO FUEL YOUR ADVENTURE

Most importantly – fill up a couple of bottles of water.

Pick up some bubble tea, a bottle of kombucha or a classic espresso.

For savoury snacks try packing easy-to-eat food such as samosas or falafels, which are great eaten cold.

Sweet snacks try favourites from different cultures including delicious stroopwaffles or indulgent macarons.

ESSENTIALS

- » Make sure you have downloaded the Lonely Planet app with its insightful guide of all the unmissable sights of Cambridge
- » Flat shoes are advisable to ensure you can take in culture in comfort

TIPS

1. Make sure to give your car a clean (inside and out!) before picking up your date
2. For food on the way back, make sure to pick up some locally sourced snacks from the independent shops in Cambridge, such as pastries from Fitzbillies or if you're a chocolate lover, make sure to head to Chocolat Chocolat
3. Read the culture sections across your favourite paper online so you're clued up before the drive
