

Romantic Road Trip for The Traditional Traveller

DESTINATION

Road trip to Canterbury.

If your date is the traditional type, organisation is everything! This style of dater will expect a solid itinerary in place.

Take your date to explore the UK's smaller cities such as Canterbury, which is full of history and beautiful architecture. Visit some of the famous tea-rooms together, such as Tiny Tim's Tearoom in the heart of Canterbury.

Then drive down through the Kent Downs to Folkestone, which is only a short journey away. Here you'll find world renowned seafood and restaurants such as the famous Rocksalt restaurant.

IN CAR ENTERTAINMENT

Podcasts to listen to - Marie Kondo's Spark Joy Podcast.

Playlists - Listen to 'All out 60's' playlist on Spotify for a blast from the past, or switch over to Radio 2 for a mixture of modern and contemporary sounds.

Easy Car-Versations - could include playing the 36 questions to fall in love game - these questions are broken up into three sets, with each section getting more and more personal.

DRINKS AND SNACKS TO FUEL YOUR ADVENTURE

Most importantly - fill up a couple of bottles of water.

Pack some shortbread biscuits or fudge for a sweet treat, for something savoury try a classic such as artisan sausage rolls or scotch eggs.

Make up some homemade pink lemonade or fill a flask with English Breakfast Tea.

ESSENTIALS

- » Make sure to have a map in the car - just in case you lose signal!
- » Don't forget an air freshener - try a romantic rose aroma

TIPS

1. Structure is everything for the traditional traveller - so do not be late picking them up!
2. Give your car a good clean, both inside and out
3. Make sure to be courteous and well-mannered in the car - ask them if you can change the music before skipping songs you don't like, and think twice before blasting the air-con without checking first
